

Notable Alumni

main index

The only African-American ice dancing team in the country, Kassy Kova and Justin Ross, Wangenheim Alumni, at the Mira Mesa ice rink. Each weekday morning, they begin by exchanging street shoes for skates and sleep for hours of coaching and practice. Kassy and Justin are beginning a new season of competition, moving into a new and tougher realm where hundreds of hopefuls compete to become one of the three teams the United States sends to the Olympics.

November 20, 2009

Alumni Kassy Kova and Justin Ross just medaled at US Figure Skating Pacific Coast Sectional Championships, and will represent San Diego at US Figure Skating National Championships in Spokane, Washington in January 2010.

Professional San Diego photographer, Ronnie Revoredo, is a Wangenheim alumnus who attended Wangenheim in the early eighties. By coincidence, his wife Serena also has a link to Wangenheim, but her link is current. She is one of the Student Learning Center teachers. Click here to see her blog.

Nina Quynh Tran is a Wangenheim Alumna. She teaches at John Harvard Learning Center and is an independent contractor (doing financial services). She graduated from SDSU 2003: Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts and Sciences-Liberal Studies. Currently she is a semi-finalist for Miss Vietnam California 2008.

Actor, Adam Brody, is a Wangenheim Alumnus.

Pro Skateboarder, Willy Santos, was at Wangenheim in 1989 in Alice Ford's class.

John Baldwin, a member of the US Figure Skating Team, is a Wangenheim Alumnus. He is shown here with his skating partner, Rena Inoue.

Wangenheim Teacher Jennifer Hinojosa is a Wangenheim Alumna.

And so is Wangenheim Teacher Genevieve Esmende.